

Going Beyond M&E
MERLA: Monitoring,
Evaluation, Research,
Learning, and Adapting

MERLA is the intentional application of results-focused monitoring, evaluation, and research to inform continuous learning and adaptation for improving program effectiveness and policy decision making.

RTI successfully applies MERLA in multiple client-funded research and development programs in dozens of countries—cutting across the technical sectors of health, education, governance, economic development, food security, agriculture, energy, and environmental science.
